PART ONE

Introduction

I believe my first obligation, with no hesitation at all, is to the good Lord, may he be Jesus Christ, Jehovah, Buddha, Mohammad, or any of the other hundreds of religious Gods placed around the world. I believe we all have someone or something to pray to. If he is the same entity, I would not know? But I believe it would be extraordinary to think that we were all praying to the same God no matter where we come from, who we are or where we live. Although I was baptized a Catholic, I am now not a real heavy practicing Catholic. I did go to a Catholic boarding college where you were on your knees the first thing in the morning and the last thing at night and I think since then I have always struggled with God the Church and myself and even to this day I still cannot understand it, with all the tragedies death and destruction I just find it to overpowering too try and have faith and even try to understand it, so now I pray to my Higher Power, whomever that may be when I feel that I need something more in my life and just the peace and solitude of prayer seems to be very rewarding when it's most needed.

I still visit the Churches whenever I can, but religion to me seems very complicated and very hard to understand with so many and some having preaching that approve of sacrificing oneself for the death of others and be rewarded all the glory in the after life, well that seems to be way to far over the top for me and I would never condone that kind of activity, actually I thought that religion was all about love for your fellow human beings and helping each other, well those will be the thoughts that I like much better and will keep with me for the rest of my life, I would rather help people and see the joy of happiness on their faces than see the carnage of death and destruction it is just something that don't seem right to me and I believe that every single person that has passed through life and that is going to, has the right to know love and happiness in their life and so many only see the dark side of life and the sadness and unhappiness and my heart goes out to those poor unfortunate souls.

I will say a prayer now for us all, and may my Higher Power bless us all and help us all find our own happiness and joy, somewhere?

I thank you so very much for obtaining this book, and I hope you find a little pleasure and a little fun. And I hope the good Lord that you believe in watches over you and your whole family, and may your life be full of happiness and contentment.

I would also like to pay homage to the two presidents, elected in early 2013 who I believe are going to be very critical and very crucial to the well-being and the survival of the human race and all living forms on this planet.

I believe they will both survive their terms and come out very creditable when they have both served their rightful duration, and as a newcomer to the job I welcome China's new president, President Xi Jinping, whom I have the greatest admiration for and I believe he will go down in history as one of the great leaders of our time.

I believe he will be a good and fair leader for his people and will show the way for the rest of the world in some very important up-and-coming issues in the future, as I believe that is his rightful place as leader of the Chinese people, I believe the time that he spent with the farmers in the countryside, where he despised the fleas the food, and the work has help turn him into a very understanding and considerate person to the hardworking country folk and to the rest of the people of China and also running away to Beijing being captured and sent back to the farm to work must have being beneficial to his discipline where he must have settled down to the dreary life ahead of him for that short amount of time in his life, in his latter years he spent time working on a farm in Iowa in the USA and also has a daughter attending Harvard University in the United States, which says a lot about this man and the trust he has for the American people and also the President of the USA which I believe they would have a good understanding of each other for him to allow his daughter to study there, it would be very interesting to know if leaders of countries would let there daughters study in China, what more would you want from a man that has opened his heart to not only the American people but also to the world as he is one of the major players and what better credentials could you ask from some one who is one of the most powerful man in the world I believe he will be the president of the people, for the people, and he will not only be loved by his own people but I believe he will also be loved and respected by countless people all over the world.

I for one have a very high opinion of this man, and I hope he has a very prosperous and fruitful presidency and I wish him and the people of China the very best.

Now to a man who really has no need for introductions he has already made history by being the first black man to be president of the United States, and like President Xi Jinping, one of the most powerful men on the face of the earth and that could be only one man, President Barack Obama.

What can you say about this man that hasn't been said before? And as president, he has just about done it all, and I believe he has much more to achieve for the people of his country and around the world and I believe he will do it all in his own way and in his own time and in his term as President and if not in this term than in the next.

As a New Zealander who watched what was happening to black America in the late '50s, '60s, and '70s, I would have sworn black and blue that there would never be a black president in my lifetime, but there you go.

How life has changed so much, and I hope only for the better. I still have sad memories of those confused times—Malcolm X, the Ku Klux Klan, and especially one of the saddest times of my lifetime, the assassination of Martin Luther King and President J F Kennedy, who I thought were both great people at the time and still do to this very day, although the latter may have had infidelities in his life which were only brought to light after his death, he was after all only human just like you and I, but that scene of him getting assassinated with the first lady by his side will forever be entombed in my mind as one of the saddest days in my life, but not only to me but to millions around this planet and at that time I thought the world had gotten smaller when we had heard that news over the radio and later seen that scene played over and over again on one of the TV's in the shop in our town they had been horrific times and before that the whole world had watched while Russia and America were on the brink of a war to end all wars and probably the end of this planet as we all know it over Cuba with all kinds of missiles and atomic bombs and every other kind of devastating armaments being unloaded from each country to the other and the fallout going all over the world once it ended and the dust had settled it would not have being a very pretty sight so luckily that never happened or I may not have been here telling you this story but of course you would not have been here to read it.

I believe that, having already added his name to the history books, President Obama has many more achievements to add. I believe that he and President Xi Jinping will both make history in their own right and will do it in their own ways, and I wish the very best for them and their respective countries.

And now to my masterpiece, and to say what it is all about? it's about us as human beings and how I see the world and what could happen if we carry on the way we are going it's also about passion, love, desire, affection, adoration, tenderness, and the way women think, to be more specific, the way Chinese women think. I am writing this book, not to ridicule or embarrass them but to praise them, because in my eyes and in my opinion, along with the women from Southeast Asia, Russia, and the Ukraine, who are also associated with this agency, are the most beautiful and most cultured women on earth. Please understand that this is my opinion, and it is written with my views and judgment and they are seen through my eyes and my eyes alone and I mean no offence to the rest of the beautiful ladies of the world I am just stating my preference and I also realise that there would be thousands if not millions who would disagree with me and that is their privilege but please tell me what kind of world would this be if we all loved and wanted the same things that were very dear to our hearts like beauty, good looks, and attraction from someone? We would be all chasing the same person around, would we not? Especially if we thought she or he was beautiful or handsome. Imagine that.

And just imagine if we caught him or her. It defies the imagination of what would happen to that person, so it's best if we don't go there and I guess it is a healthy feeling to see someone and not fall in love with him or her and then for another person to come along and fall madly in love with that person. I believe that is a good and healthy way to think and act and that is our right as human beings.

I also had contact with women in Southeast Asia, Russia, and the Ukraine, and they were very beautiful and very friendly, but most of my time was spent in contact with the beautiful women of China. I must also add that when I was about eight or nine years old and going to primary school, a few of the kids at my school thought that I was Asian, Chinese, or Japanese and started calling me Jap. At that time, it wasn't the best of names because World War II had just finished and most of the adults had just come back from fighting the Japanese and the Germans, but that was a long time ago. I kind of had that analysis all through my life. Even up to this very day, people see me and ask me which part of Asia or China I come from and walk away in disgust, as I don't answer them in their native tongue. The only reason that I know this is because another Chinese person was standing beside me who could speak English, and he told me what that person had said. When I had told him that I came from New Zealand, he laughed and said he thought that I was Chinese too.

So you can guess I do have Oriental features. That could be another reason why I like Chinese and Asian woman it was quite funny because I am a Kiwi from New Zealand, and like anyone else, I am very proud of who I am and where I come from, but what I consider to be more important to me than anything else is that we are all brothers and sisters together on this planet regardless of where we come from, what skin colour we are or who we are and the quicker we embrace and learn to understand this, the better life is going to be for us all, I remember a song that came out in the late sixties by Blue Mink a popular band at the time and it was called Melting Pot and it was number one for many weeks and here are a few lyrics to the song

Take a pinch of white man
Wrap him up in black skin
Add a touch of blue blood
And a little bitty bit of Red Indian boy

What we need is a great big melting pot
Big enough to take the world and all it's got
And keep it stirring for a hundred years or more
And turn out coffee coloured people by the score

I liked the song very much and the lyrics were very good too as it says put every one together in a big melting pot and you would get coffee coloured people by the score, well that would certainly solve the racial problem don't you think, so if you get the chance, it would be worth it to take a listen to this song, the other verses are just as good you never know you may like it as much as I did or even more, they also had a few other hits too that could be worth your while listening to, they were one of the top bands at that time.

But to be honest in what I think, to me people have definitely changed in the way they think from the 50's 60's and 70's culture most white populated countries around the world had racial prejudiced against black or coloured people in a very bad way and also to Asian people, but I thank my Higher Power and your God whoever or whatever it may be for there involvement for the times have really changed and I believe for the better now it's not such a big deal to marry who you want where you want and when you want in this day and age not like in those times in some countries you could not get in the same bus or use the same school or toilets as the white people so you have to admit there has being a major change in attitude, although there are still people in this world that think they are better then the next person, believe me they are only kidding themselves and they usually find that out in a way that they never forget like a big wake up call in there life from someone who they meet that is mentally and physically more into life and thinks exactly opposite to the way they think and lets them know in no uncertain manner and believe me there a many of those kind of people around in every avenue and aspects of our lives So take a good look at the person next to you no matter if you are sitting in a bus, walking down the street or in the London Tube and if he be Russian, Chinese, Scottish, English or native African or Australian Aborigine he is no different from you, he does all the same things that you do and in some cases has the same goals as you the only difference is that he may have done more or less of the things you have done, like studying, which would make you more intelligent or going to the gym which would make your frame more physically built and offcourse as far as the Australian Aborigine and a lot of other countries around the world the colour of there skin and the language he speaks and if you are wondering about the blackness of his skin try going out into the middle of the desert like his for-fathers did and survive with nothing but the clothes on your back and if you are lucky enough to survive I have grave doubts that you would, but if you did, a hundred years down the track, your family tree would end up the same colour as his, if you don't believe, go out and try and survive like how his for-fathers did there is a lot of desert real estate out there and you know what? it cost nothing, and see if you come back the same colour as what you are now and that's only if you survive, I have grave doubts, you will on both counts.

Just take a good look around and see what is happening on this planet at this very moment. You don't need me to explain what is happening. It is just everywhere, and if you turn the TV on, you are just pummelled with news of wars, killings, child killings, and all kinds of human atrocities and human disasters and as human beings our minds try and struggle to comprehend and understand as law abiding citizens, how we as people can do what we do to each other when you see it evolving in front of you on your TV screen, it seems that we are much worse than prehistoric man at least you could not blame them for what they did to each other they had no form of language as we have today only the sense for survival and yet we are intelligent and skilful human beings and have the means to negotiate or talk our way through problems and not just turn around and want to kill each other like savages, or were they more intelligent?

With everything we have at our fingertips, You would think they were. I also believe that in many ways the human race in the last three hundred years have done more damage to this planet that we all love so much than anytime in it's entire history and to lay some of the blame to the most humble beasts of all the cow for his farting and releasing of his bodily waste seems a far cry from all the vehicles and factories and wars all over the world sending smoke and pollution into the air is way beyond me, but if it is a scientific fact than who am I to dispute that it's not the cow but the elephant and his friends up the road or for that matter any animal even ourselves as one of the main pollutants, I believe we are, but no, the scientists have said it's the poor humble cow that is responsible for part of it, well I have no argument against that, I just find it hard to believe when there are so many other equations that come into the picture, I also believe the human race is responsible for natural disasters, with their bomb testing underground and above ground and with all the bombs and explosives that were used in all the wars especially in the blanket bombing in the Vietnam conflict and also the plugging into the earth of radio active waste and all other dangerous contaminated pollutants there must be a retaliation from MOTHER EARTH and I believe that the Russian and the Japanese Nuclear disasters and the tidal waves of 2004 that took the lives of over 250,000 poor unfortunate souls may they all rest in peace and all other tragedies linked to MOTHER EARTH what else can anyone expect from her I believe she has to heal herself and us humans a not worried about letting her and the worst part is that we won't even help her and that to me can only lead to disaster for us all as human beings and it's so very sad because I believe if you stop and take the time out to listen on your own in a quite secluded and peaceful place you will hear her crying out for help from everyone of us for she is part of us and we a part of her for I believe that every living entity that has ever graced this planet from the beginning of time to this very day has left part of what they were here no matter how small or minute be it animal vegetable or mineral and I truly believe this with my whole heart for what do we go back to when we die? I don't think I need to say more, just think of the millions upon millions that have gone before us, making every single living entity that have passed on all parts of her.

If one person can understand what I am talking about and spread the word of love to everyone that she or he can, then I consider this book to be a success in more ways than one. So I hope it is a phenomenal success. Then I would know I have done my very best to help alter our course to destruction, and by that time I sincerely hope that I will have spent my moments with the lady of my dreams and that we will have made unbelievable and insatiable love to last us more and well beyond a lifetime.

Where to start? Well, I guess my name would be a good starting point as any, and China would be the best place to begin. I am Jonah Lee, and I have every respect for the Chinese people. I think they have done wonders in the world. From thirty years ago to where they are now, there has been an extraordinary improvement, they have literally lifted themselves out of the ashes to become the economic super heavyweight country in the world, and that's really saying something.

But what I want to talk to you about is one of the premier Chinese dating services in the world.

I have been in it for over five years, and I have been in contact through the Internet with so many beautiful and passionate women. To this day, I still don't know why they sent me letters wanting to get in contact with me.

I just want to marry a nice Chinese lady and when I find her or when she finds me, which ever happens first will be a day for us to both remember and I hope it is not to far in the future and we could both melt back into the millions of people around the world and get lost in our own world and she would be the most loved person in the whole wide world and I would kiss the very ground she walked on she would be my Cleopatra and all the beautiful woman past and present rolled into one !!HER!! and I would give her all my love till the end of my days, she would be my little China Doll.

As long as there is love, I will cherish her? As long as there is life I will love her, As long as the stars shine above, I will want her always, As long as there are waves in the ocean, I will forever need her, As long as there is a heaven above there will always be our love for each other.... .

I really thought when I got the first two or three letters from such beautiful and exquisite woman there must have been some kind of mistake, the ladies must have had eye problems, or something must have been wrong with them.

There was also the age factor. Some were as young as eighteen years old, and to me, it was absolutely unbelievable because I am no Jackie Chan, Brad Pitt or George Clooney.

I consider those guys to be very handsome guys, and in my opinion, these women would be more than justified to be seen in the company of any one of these famous film stars, and they would not look anywhere out of place. I am afraid I am not in the same bus as these guys, maybe about ten behind, and being on the other side of fifty-five does not help the situation. So I had all this going against me, and still I was receiving beautiful letters from gorgeous ladies. I thought this could not be right, so I opened my profile to the lovely ladies of Southeast Asia, Russia and the Ukraine, and guess what? They were just as beautiful and just as complimentary as the Chinese, and some just as young, but I could not believe it. To me, it was awesome but also unreal.

I have not tried the lovely ladies from Japan or South Korea but if my luck does not change they will be my next port-of-call.

Just recently I got an admiring letter from a very attractive twenty-year-old law student who told me about a very famous Chinese physicist called Zhang Zhen Ning, who at the age of eighty-two married a woman the age of twenty-eight. Now I must say I don't really know about that, and eighty-two seems to me a bit over the hill, but who am I to criticize? I don't even know what is going on in my own life, and he knows exactly what he wants. So I must congratulate this man, for he must have something going for him that I don't have, and I wish him the very best. I guess his young lady did a lot for him, and I have to agree after reading that it really opened my eyes more to young woman, but I still think and believe that older women have so much to give, and their experiences and knowledge are immeasurable, but after reading about Mr. Zhang Zhen Ning I don't exactly know where my loyalties lie. I would prefer to keep my options open now, and I must say it leaves a bit of hope for me in the younger age bracket.

I guess that puts Mr. Zhang Zhen Ning in the Hugh Hefner class, the famous American Playboy magnet and the legendary founder of Playboy Magazine. He must be in the late eighties or early nineties age group, but he is still with young women. Well, I think he is. It could be his money, but all I say is good luck to him as well and I wish him the very best. I have often thought about his lifestyle and what it would be like to have so many beautiful playboy women around you. I believe Chinese emperors, African kings, and ancient kings all had many wives. Even today some Mormons have many wives, and different cults around the world believe in that lifestyle. I would just like to know how they could manage so many wives. I think it's hard enough trying to look after and love one woman let alone trying to love a whole lot, but who is to say what I would do if a few beautiful women approached me and wanted to live that kind of lifestyle with me? In fact, if any man were approached by a bevy of beautiful women, I believe I would have to think it over quite seriously and passionately. Even Moses in the Bible lived that lifestyle, so I would be among some famous and illustrious company if I decided to go down that road. There is an old saying: don't criticize it if you've never tried it. I guess that is something that would be worth keeping in the back of my mind.

I would also like to add that in the five years that I have been in this certain agency I have never met or kissed one single woman, and that includes the ladies from Southeast Asia, Russia, and the Ukraine. I did go to China to meet a lady in Chongqing, but she changed her mind one day before I was due to leave Perth, Australia. I don't know why that happened. I can only think that she was shy, and meeting me would have been out of her comfort zone. Well, I would like to kind of think along those lines even if it wasn't true.

Anyway, that's yesterday's news. I had no option but to carry on with my arrangements, or I would have lost my money for nothing. So I went, and after narrowly avoiding being locked up by the Chongqing airport police for not knowing anyone, not knowing a word of Chinese, and having nowhere to stay, they pointed me in the direction of a hotel which was not too far from the airport and let me loose on the poor people of Chongqing. It could have being worse, I guess. I could have spent the rest of my time behind bars looking out and waiting for my flight to come and bring me back to Australia, if I was lucky, which was due in eight days, but I think they had a bit of sympathy for me, because as I said they pointed me to a hotel in the distance and let me loose.
